

Karen Millen Fashion Floors Hampstead, London

The specialist flooring contractors Coverdale Specialist Contracting Limited, have now completed refurbishing the floors in several Karen Millen fashion stores with Remmers' systems. One of the latest that we feature here is at Hampstead in London.

Karen Millen formed an executive team to determine their future flooring requirements as part of their continuous building improvement and refurbishment programme. The executives decided that they required a modern, light reflective floor finish. This had to be durable under the small wheeled abrasion of clothing rails and the high heeled foot traffic of their upmarket clientele. The floors also had to be available in a range of colours to provide a corporate design and style but with flexibility to be adapted to any local requirements and planning regulations. Coverdale were able to provide just such a solution, using Remmers Stone Carpet System. This high performance, trowel applied commercial flooring consists of Remmers Construction Resin both as a primer and then as the binder for millions of tiny graded coloured pebbles. This gave the attractive finish to meet the clients' demanding specification.

One further advantage of the Remmers Stone Carpet System much appreciated by the Karen Millen team, is the fact that a store can be fully prepared, the system applied and then re-opened for business in only a single weekend, or two day midweek closure.

Additionally, the Remmers Stone Carpet system can be applied on many different substrates, simply by selecting the appropriate preparation and Remmers primer. This includes concrete, cementitious and anhydrite screeds, wood and ceramic or quarry tiles etc.
